Curriculum Vitae

Andrew Perrins is Worcestershire born and bred and proud of his local roots, being the great grandson of Dyson Perrins of Worcestershire Sauce fame. He is 70 years old and has been married to Nicky for 36 years: they have three children and are expecting their first grandchild.

He was schooled at Marlborough College but claims that he was educated while working on seven different properties in the outback in Australia – a steep learning curve for an 18 year old. After qualifying as a Chartered Surveyor at Cirencester Agricultural College he worked as a Land Agent for a few years before returning to the family farm near Upton on Severn.

The farm has diversified in other areas over the years but he is still “hands on”, dealing mainly with the flock of sheep. He has been involved with a number of other organisations over the years, chairing both the CLA and FWAG. He was a Trustee of the Royal Porcelain Museum for a number of years. He was also High Sheriff in 2001.

He takes a keen interest in matters rural generally and conservation in particular. He tries to run his farm on environmentally friendly lines and thinks his lasting legacy will probably be the woodlands he has planted. His ambition is to beat his wife at golf but he fears that it is a distant dream.
